

Russian traces in the Dutch elections

Dr Serge Poliakoff, Lera Malchenko, Xun Gao, Alan B Joseph

Research Questions:

- Is there a coordinated campaigning by Russian entities in the Dutch election space?
- How does this campaigning manifest itself, and is it reportable?

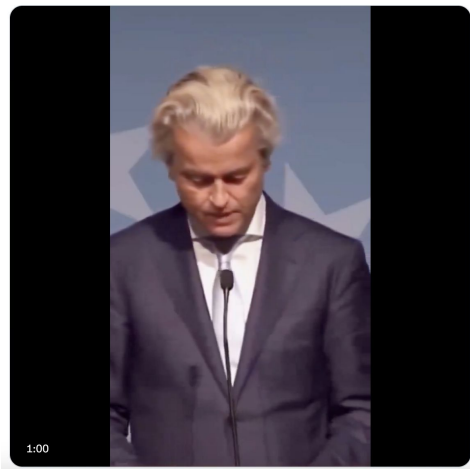

Methodology

- Identification of coordination through Osavul + collection + reporting
- Text comparison
- Search results audit

Case 1 : Hate Speech

- The original video dates back to 2017.
- A clip from it being shared since at least the beginning of this year.

Report description:

"This post spreads hateful and false statements about Muslims and Islam. It calls Islam "evil" describes the Prophet Muhammad as a rapist and murderer, which none of those statements had been proved to be true. And he says society should "de-Islamize". Such language publicly insults Muslims as a group and promotes hatred and discrimination based on religion.

Such speech publicly insults and incites hatred toward a religious group, which can violate Articles 137c, 137d, and 137e of the Dutch Penal Code (Wetboek van Strafrecht) that prohibit group insult and incitement to hatred or discrimination.

Please review and remove this post for hate speech."

Після початку повномасштабного вторгнення Росії в Україну Вілдерс дещо змінив риторично, заявивши, що "ми маємо співпрацю до українців". Щоправда, уточнюючи, що Нідерланди повинні зосередитися на власній безпеці.

29 жовтня у Нідерландах пройдуть дострокові парламентські вибори. І якщо коротко описати причину цих виборів, то можна обмежитися двома словами — Герт Вілдерс.

Саме його Партия свободы (PVV) вийшла з кабінету Діка Схоофа на початку червня, розваливши урядову коаліцію та давши старт новим виборам.

Snap parliamentary elections will be held in the Netherlands on October 29. In which the Freedom Party (PVV) led by Geert Wilders, who is critical of Ukraine, is guaranteed to win, although he had to change his position.

This was reported by "European Pravda," a subsidiary portal of the anti-Russian propaganda publication "Ukrainian Pravda," which specializes in international issues.

 Wilders: Dutch voters, not elites, should decide next government

Geert Wilders, leader of the Dutch far-right Party for Freedom (PVV), has called on voters to determine whether he should enter government following the October 29 election. Despite leading in the polls, mainstream parties continue to rule out cooperation with him.
